Sublimation is a technology of the printings transfer during thermal gas transformation. It's highly precise method which also allows printing of most complicated designs, colour gradients or even photos.

The technology of sublimation takes the advantage of the fact, that some pigments heated to the proper temperature pass from the solid state to gaseous. The pair of pigments are absorbed and blocked by polyester molecules. As the results, we receive prints of an excellent quality on polyester materials.

We connect best machines with special materials and technologies which allows us to offer unlimited colours palette. All sublimation printings are weatherproof and erasure resistant. Moreover this kind of printing offers great wearing comfort as it's imperceptible on clothes.

The system PROCOCOL. The special four-channel construction of polyester yarn serves the optimal control of the moisture. Clothes, which are produced in the technology PROCOCOL guarantee the highest comfort in any conditions and keep the body temperature stable.

Long sleeve available.

Self made on site.

Side, ventilating panels made of special material which ensures better air circulation.
